

10 Reasons to give Jesus a chance

Solid truth (John 8:32)

“and you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free.”

Funny thing about truth: we all have a different one that we believe in. Why is that? I mean we all have learned stuff from the past. Some of those things are things like “don’t murder” and “don’t stick your tongue on a frozen pole.” Still, the real truth about what is real and what is not eludes us. The term “I never saw that coming” seems to beat up the truth. Things change and we have decided the truth changes with time, or doesn’t it?

We need solid ground to feel secure, confident, and sure about life. With a changing truth we are never quite sure about things, are we? Jesus says the truth about him and his Father in heaven is solid and never changing. Is that so bad? Is it so bad to have something in this world we can trust? People say that trusting God is an issue. Why? If his ways have never changed then what’s not to trust?

All I can offer is that Jesus will not change. If he says he will be there: he will. If he says that God will never give you more than you can handle: they will. Solid truth is very helpful. You can then always lean on the very thing that never changes. So when times look tough, Jesus says there is always a way through. God always lets things happen for the good of those who love him. This Christmas has worries and good times. Jesus is the way, the truth, and the life. The only way to the Father is through Jesus. That is the truth 2000 years ago till tomorrow. Will you give Jesus a chance to prove it?
